

David Waltman

Vice President, Federal Government

Meet David

As a Vice President in Cerner Government Services, David Waltman is responsible for program strategy and technology supporting the delivery of Cerner's health care solutions in the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) and the Department of Defense (DoD).

Leadership experience

Prior to joining Cerner in 2017, David served as Chief Information Strategy Officer and Senior Advisor to the Under Secretary for Health in the Veterans Health Administration (VHA). In this role, he served as VHA program executive for VistA Evolution, and advised top VA presidential appointees on health information technology and strategy issues.

Accomplishments

As a technology leader and innovator, David directed the initial deployment and rapid expansion of the Joint Legacy Viewer in VA and DoD, and is an inventor on multiple United States patents held by Microsoft Corporation for computer software interfaces.

David earned a master's degree in conducting from Western Washington University, and a bachelor's degree in music from the University of Northern Colorado.
